FIELD SELECT CABERNET SAUVIGNON 2019

6th generation Napa farmer Haley Wight proves that good quality wine starts in the farm with this refined Cab.

WINERY BACKGROUND: Napa winemaker Haley Wight is the 6th generation of her family to farm the Lewelling Ranch which sits at the base of the St. Helena foothills in the Napa Valley. She believes the farmer in the field lays the foundation to produce amazing wine. Her Cabernet comes from the same block of the same vineyard every year, which is one of the oldest continuously owned and family-farmed pieces of land in the valley.

The name has several personal meanings: a nickname Haley had as a child (the first part of her name and her lean physique) and a reference to the tiny town of Hayfork in the Trinity Mountains of Northern CA where the family spent time fishing. It is also a tribute to her farming background.

VINEYARD & WINEMAKING DETAILS: The 2019 Hayfork Field Select is a concentrated Cabernet made with grapes harvested from Hayfork's best block of Clone 6 Cabernet. 85% aged in new French oak.

TASTING NOTES & FOOD PAIRING SUGGESTIONS: Lush & velvety with plenty of floral character, black currants, graphite, espresso notes, and forest floor. Stalwart tannins and dark fruit support a lasting finish on this lustrous wine. Pairs well with heartier meat entrees like grilled steak, beef short ribs or roast lamb.
